Black Girls Do Science™

Black Girls Do Science is a program designed to inspire underrepresented young women from all backgrounds in grades 4-8 to explore career and educational opportunities in the STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics) field. This program is open to all.

When: Saturday, April 25, 2020, 9:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.

Where: Kirkwood Regional Center at the University of Iowa, 2301 Oakdale Blvd; Coralville, IA

---

Lunch provided

Science demos & workshops

---

YES, Girls Do Science!

Individuals with disabilities are encouraged to attend all University of Iowa sponsored events. If you are a person with a disability who requires a reasonable accommodation in order to participate in this program, please contact Alexis Anderson (alexis-c-anderson@uiowa.edu) in advance.